Message of Vice Chancellor

-Vijay Manohar Tiwari

Makhanlal Chaturvedi National University of Journalism and Communication, situated in Bhopal, has been shaping India's media education journey for over last three decades. Recognised as one of Asia's oldest media universities, it blends strong academic foundations with evolving media practices. The university has developed the curriculum in the latest format to give students the opportunity to study subjects of their choice under the Choice Based Credit System (CBCS) and NEP 2020.

With academic activities spread across 20 Indian states, the university continues to reach and nurture a diverse community of learners, where classroom teaching is closely linked with real field exposure. Today the university is imparting education through a wide network of more than 1700 affiliated study institutes in rural areas. Its students today work across newsrooms, film and television, corporate communication, information services, research, and library sciences.
